What college(s) or university(ies) have you attended?
UPF - Universidade de Passo Fundo

What is your current occupation?
Model and businessman

Please describe your personality.
I'm a lover of life person, I just love my life in the all ways that it goes, in the bad and in the good experiences, because no matter how end my day im still positive because if I had bad experiences I can learn something from it, I live life day by day enjoying every moment and trying to make the people around me comfortable, resuming… Im very happy and joyful, my friends can describe me as a very loyal friend..

What is your interest and talents?
I really love sports. All kind of sports i'm into it… I grow up in Brazil playing soccer almost every day…

What is your ambitions and goals in life? where do you see yourself in 5 or 10 years?
I'm a family person, in 5 years I hope to be married and in 10 years have 2 child, I consider myself an optimist person, I lived already in 15 countries learning about every single culture so I want use all my skills of networking and knowledge to setup some business

Please describe your skills and interest in the following areas:
Math: I love maths, I consider myself a good mathematician in the exacts… I never really saw much relevance of the things I was learning in my own life until I started exploring subjects like physics. now i'm studying by myself quantum physics and everyday I love more…

Mechanical: To be honest I never like do this kind of hand jobs, always I prefer to work with my mind.

Music, artistic and creativity: I really love music and arts im listen all kind of musics

Athletic: consider myself to be very athletic, I love running around outside, hiking in the mountains like when I was living in cape town, South africa almost everyday i was Hiking in the mountains there. I played a lot of sports growing up, soccer especially, but eventually moved away from organized sports, now I just play soccer with my friends on the weekends and tennis with my girlfriend.

Writing: I actually really love to write. I often write to friends of mine that are long-distance, and find that I can communicate well and really get to know someone just through writing. I also write on my own, often to explore something that I'm feeling or thinking a lot about. This is usually either in the form of a personal entry, just cataloging my experience and putting it down on paper, or through creative writing, either a short poem or story that I feel captures what's going on in my head. I started to write a book about the human mind and how I see it… but I dont finished it yet, hope I can finish soon and give one for you :)

Literature: I love books! As a child I spent almost all of my elementary and middle school staying up late into the night reading. When I start reading a book I absolutely cannot stop until I finish it, which often leads me to sit with my nose buried in a paperback for an entire day. Today, I still really love to read, but I'm pretty busy, so I usually tend to read in short binge sessions when I have time, now im reading more about psychology and human mind.

Science: I really love science, mostly when is about atoms and quantum physics.

Movies: I'm really fan of movies and series, when I was a kid I dream to be an actor to be inside the television acting…

Books/Author: Like i said before, my favorite books is about human mind now, the power of silence of eckart toll is my favorite, i read about 10 times already hahaha

Tell us few reasons why you want became a donor?
I'm interested in the process. I think that it's really interesting to be able to donate my genetics to someone else who is interested in raising a child. I also just feel like it is an opportunity for me to give back to someone else, especially since this is something that doesn't take too much work from me but makes a huge difference for someone else. And I believe in the good energy inside me go to another baby and in the future I hope this person can be good to someone else too…

Did you choice your identity-release program donor* ? YES/NO
Yes

Why did you make this choice ?
Because I will love to meet this child in the future if is his/her choice…
