I work out extensively. 5-6 times a week with each day focusing on one muscle group. I'm pretty strong for my size. I love doing cardio at the gym but even more im hiking moderate/hard trails.

Please describe your personality:

I'm a social butterfly! I am very friendly, I tend to get along with people that I meet. I'm dependable in a professional and personal setting. Most people would say that I am not judgemental and that I'm the person they feel comfortable coming to for advice. I'm wise beyond my years and I thank my mother for that!

Please describe your hobbies or what you do on your spare time:

In my spare time I do go to the gym! Like I said above, about 5-6 times a week. I try to hike once every weekend when I have the time. I'm very family oriented so I tend to spend a lot of my weekends with family whether it's for the holidays or a birthday or just because they want to have a barbecue. I love music, I listen to a little bit of everything & enjoy seeing the artists and groups that I like in person in concert. I also love traveling when I can. I love to explore new places, new cultures and their food and music, it's a beautiful learning experience.

Reproductive History

Why do you want to become an egg donor?

I have actually donated 2 times now & I absolutely love being able to help someone in need who may not be able to conceive naturally themselves or in their partnership.

If you could send a message to the Intended Parents. What would you say?

I would say that I would love to help any intended parent(s) to have a baby of their own. I personally do not know if I want children of my own, but if I could potentially help a couple in need, I would do it in a heartbeat. I think it is such a kind & beautiful thing to do for others who may not have the easiest time to conceive themselves.
